

Researching Global China: A Methodological Challenge Challenge and Innovation

Since the first wave of empirical studies of China's internationalisation where much focused on interactions with African countries, there has been a wealth of studies across different continents utilising a broad range of methodologies.

Yet there have been few reflections on the methodological challenges and opportunities of researching Global China.

Studying Global China also produces methodological innovation involving research strategies that overcome the complexities of conducting fieldwork in diverse environments. This conference will explore both these challenges and innovations.

We're pleased to announce that our Keynote Speakers will be:
Professor Ching Kwan Lee, UCLA
Dr Julie Klinger, University of Delaware

More exciting updates and speakers will be announced in due course.
